Koshi Earth Symphony

Four chimes. One symphony.

The Earth Symphony collection brings together four Koshi chimes inspired by Mountain, Forest, River and Ocean. Each has its own melody, its own wood and its own character. Twelve rods extend the resonance, and four of them are doubled at the same frequency to act as sympathetic resonators, giving a deep, long and immersive sound.

Koshi Mountain

Axis between earth and sky, a place of stillness and inner uprightness. Stability, presence, the feeling of being carried.

Meet the Earth Symphony collection

Koshi Mountain – Walnut, E major

Mountain stands as an axis between earth and sky, a place of stillness and inner uprightness. Its melody gives stability, presence and the feeling of being carried. Like a mountain, it invites you to stand firm, to take the long view and to find calm at a great height. Its body is made of walnut, a noble hardwood with a warm brown tone, which stands for wisdom, protection and inner strength.

Koshi River – Cherry, G# minor

River has a fluid, flowing and positive character. Its melody may evoke movement, change and the current of a river that is never the same twice. It teaches trust: you do not push a river, you move with it. Let your thoughts drift downstream and meet what comes next with hope. Its body is made of cherry, a fine hardwood with a warm reddish tone, which stands for renewal, hope and new beginnings.

Koshi Forest – Oak, F# minor

Forest has a deep and contemplative character. Its melody is inspired by the forest as a living space and may evoke mysterious voices as much as silence. Beneath the trees, the roots connect in a silent network, and in the half-light between the trunks, a deeper listening begins. Its body is made of oak, the king of the forest, sacred to the Druids, which stands for strength, endurance, protection and wisdom.

Koshi Ocean – Maple, pentatonic B major

Ocean has a vast, deep and welcoming character. Its pentatonic melody may evoke boundless expanse and the movement of the waves, and its phrases always resolve gently and never sound tense. Like the tides, it rises and falls like breath and invites you to float without effort. Its body is made of maple, a fine, light hardwood with a clear, bright tone, which stands for balance, generosity and promise.

Enjoy your lovely new sound.
